Report and Recommendation

Plaintiff, a detainee at Sumter County Detention Center, files this case pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Plaintiff claims that he is being “detained for no sufficient reason with no legal detainer and without a bond or legal reasons to hold me.” Complaint at 2.

Under established local procedure in this judicial district, a careful review has been made of the pro se Complaint herein pursuant to the procedural provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 1915. This review has been conducted in light of the following precedents: Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 324-25 (1989); Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97 (1976); Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972); and Gordon v. Leeke, 574 F.2d 1147 (4th Cir.). This Court is required to liberally construe pro se documents, Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97 (1976), holding them to a less stringent standard than those drafted by attorneys, Hughes v. Rowe, 449 U.S. 9 (1980) (per curiam). Even under this less stringent standard, however, the pro se Complaint filed in this case is subject to summary dismissal. The mandated liberal construction afforded to pro se pleadings means that if the Court can reasonably read the pleadings to state a valid claim on which the plaintiff could prevail, it should do so, but a district court may not rewrite a pleading to include claims that were never presented, Barnett v. Hargett, 174 F.3d 1128, 1133 (10th Cir. 1999), or construct the plaintiff's legal arguments for him, Small v. Endicott, 998 F.2d 411, 417-18 (7th Cir. 1993), or “conjure up questions never squarely presented” to the Court, Beaudett v. City of Hampton, 775 F.2d 1274, 1278 (4th Cir. 1985).

Discussion

Plaintiff pled guilty to Criminal Domestic Violence, first offense, on October 11, 2007, and alleges he was told by Defendant Judge Tyndale that he would not be released until an order of protection had been entered against him. Plaintiff complains that though an order of protection has been entered, he still has not been released, and numerous attempts to discover why he is still being detained have been fruitless. However, Plaintiff does not explicitly ask to be released;¹ rather, Plaintiff asks the Court to find Defendants guilty of failing to follow court orders, and requests $3 million in damages.

In order to state a claim for damages under 42 U.S.C. § 1983,² an aggrieved party must sufficiently allege that he or she was injured by “the deprivation of any [of his or her] rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the [United States] Constitution and laws” by a “person” acting “under color of state law.” See 42 U.S.C. § 1983; Monroe v. Page, 365 U.S. 167 (1961); see generally 5 Charles Alan Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure § 1230 (2002). It is well settled that only “persons” may act under color of state law, therefore, a defendant in a § 1983 action must qualify as a “person.” Inanimate objects such as buildings, facilities, and grounds are not “persons” for purposes of a § 1983 lawsuit and do not act under color of state law. See Allison v. California Adult Auth., 419 F.2d 822, 823 (9th Cir. 1969)(California Adult Authority and San Quentin Prison not “person[s]” subject to suit under 42 U.S.C. § 1983); Preval v. Reno, 57 F. Supp.2d 307, 310 (E.D. Va. 1999)(“[T]he Piedmont Regional Jail is not a ‘person,’ and therefore not amenable to suit under 42 U.S.C. § 1983.”); Brooks v. Pembroke City Jail, 722 F. Supp. 1294, 1301(E.D.N.C. 1989)(“Claims under § 1983 are directed at ‘persons’ and the jail is not a person amenable to suit.”). Therefore, the Sumter County Detention Center and the Magistrate Court of Sumter must be dismissed as they are not “persons” amenable to suit under § 1983.

¹If the plaintiff is seeking immediate release from confinement, he cannot obtain such relief under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Under Heck v. Humphrey, 512 U.S. 477 (1994), “[r]elease from prison is not a remedy available under 42 U.S.C. § 1983.” Habeas corpus is the exclusive remedy for a state prisoner who challenges the fact or duration of his confinement and seeks immediate or speedier release. Preiser v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 475 (1973).

² Section 1983 is the procedural mechanism through which Congress provided a private civil cause of action based on allegations of federal constitutional violations by persons acting under color of state law. Jennings v. Davis, 476 F.2d 1271 (8th Cir. 1973). The purpose of § 1983 is to deter state actors from using their badge of authority to deprive individuals of their federally guaranteed rights and to provide relief to victims if such deterrence fails. McKnight v. Rees, 88 F.3d 417 (6th Cir. 1996)(emphasis added).

With respect to the named natural Defendants, Plaintiff does not explain how Defendants Simon Major or Darryl McGainey individually violated his constitutional rights. While he names them as Defendants, their names do not appear again in the Complaint, and no allegations have been made against these Defendants. As he has failed to make any claim against these individuals under § 1983, he has failed to “state a claim on which relief may be granted,” and they should be dismissed as party Defendants under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B)(ii). As for Judge Tyndale,³ Judges have absolute immunity from a claim for damages arising out of their judicial actions. See Mireles v. Waco, 502 U.S. 9 (1991); Stump v. Sparkman, 435 U.S. 349, 351-364 (1978); Pressly v. Gregory, 831 F.2d 514, 517 (4th Cir. 1987)(a suit against two Virginia magistrates); and Chu v. Griffith, 771 F.2d 79, 81 (4th Cir. 1985)(“It has long been settled that a judge is absolutely immune from a claim for damages arising out of his judicial actions.”). Plaintiff makes no allegation that this judge was not at all times acting within her judicial capacity concerning his case, and this Defendant is therefore entitled to summary dismissal based on her absolute immunity from suit.

Finally, in addition to monetary relief, Plaintiff requests that the Defendants be criminally prosecuted for their roles in the alleged violations of his rights. As to this request for relief, Plaintiff's Complaint is subject to summary dismissal without service on the Defendants because Plaintiff does not have any constitutional right to, or, in fact, any judicially cognizable interest in, the prosecution or non-prosecution of another person. Linda R.S. v. Richard D., 410 U.S. 614, 619 (1973); see Diamond v. Charles, 476 U.S. 54, 64-65 (1986)(applying Linda R.S. v. Richard D. and collecting cases); Doyle v. Oklahoma State Bar Ass'n, 998 F.2d 1559, 1566-67 (10th Cir. 1993); Collins v. Palczewski, 841 F. Supp. 333, 340 (D. Nev. 1993)("Long ago the courts of these United States established that 'criminal statutes cannot be enforced by civil actions.'"); Johnson v. Craft, 673 F.Supp. 191, 193 (S.D. Miss. 1987)("there appears to be no federal constitutional right to have criminal wrongdoers brought to justice"). Hence, Plaintiff cannot have this Court prosecute criminal charges against the Defendants as "[n]o citizen has an enforceable right to institute a criminal prosecution." Lopez v. Robinson, 914 F.2d 486, 494 (4th Cir. 1990) (citing Linda R. v. Richard V., 410 U.S. 614, 619 (1973) ("In American jurisprudence at least, a private citizen lacks a judicially cognizable interest in the prosecution or nonprosecution of another.")). Further, prosecutorial discretion does not reside in the judicial branch; the decision whether or not to prosecute, and what charge to file or bring, generally rests within the prosecutor's discretion. Bordenkircher v. Hayes, 434 U.S. 357, 364 (1978); see also United States v. Giannattasio, 979 F.2d 98, 100 (7th Cir. 1992).

RECOMMENDATION

Accordingly, it is recommended that the Court dismiss the Complaint in this case without prejudice and without issuance and service of process. See United Mine Workers v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715 (1966); see also Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 324-25 (1989); Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972).
